THE WINTER IS COMING.

Winter is coming-cold and drear-See ye the poor around? O, when the wrathful storms career, And snows o'erspread the ground ; Will ye not take them by the hand. Or to the bovel go, And around the dying embers stand, And wipe the tears that flow !

Winter is coming-licar ve not The mother's carnest cry ! For dark and dreary is her lot, No real friend is nigh-For wood and bread she asketh now, O ! shall she ask to vite? See sorrow strupped up in her brow, And mark the orphan train.

Winter is coming-every drawer Should be unlacked to-lay: Whom do you keep that clothing for ? Why not give it away I Come pull stoat-a cleak, a vest, Whatever you can give, Wrapped sough round the orphan's breast, Will make the dying live,

The closet water-a pair of shoes. Half worn-and here's a cap. Which you perhaps may never use A hat with scarce a cap-A pair of pants-a rusty coa --O, give them to the poor : What is not worth to you a great Will health and warmth secure.

What's in your garret? Have the moths For months been busy there? Ay, they have quite destroyed the clothes You've saved with product care. Come pull them out, perhaps we may Find something that will make

A poor man rich if given to-day. And bless the hearts that ache. Winter is coming-give, oh, give Whatever ye can spare :

A mire will make the weetched live, And smooth the brow of cire. When Plenty smiles around your door, And comfort dwells within; If you forget the worthy poor. 'Twill be a grievous sin.

The charity of the world is very cleverly carof their sympathy is perishing for want of the neces-sary sixpence. Few there are that pariake of

To half a score of auditors. Who all looked vastly surry. Some pried much, some very much, Some very much indeed! But not one cent did they bestow To help the man of need. At length a Frenchman forward stepp d In puty half, half choler. And emptying his purse-"By gar ! I pity you two Dolliar !"

REMINISCENCE OF AN OLD TRA-

Late in the evening of a sultry day in the month of September, 1820. I arrived at the then small village of Peoria, the seat of justice of the county of the same cognomen. in the State of Illinois. The taveru at which I stopped, was filled to overflowing citing case of negro stealing would be tried.

As myself and horse both stood much in remain and hear the trial. Just at 3 o'. clock, next morning, I observed a mon, with that stood against a log building located in the centre of the town. As soon as he ceased blowing, and in a stentorium voice proclaimed that the Court of Proris county and the law will send him where he cannot still live, surrounded by some half dozen hapwas then in session under the roof that he excupied; and I forthwith made my way I leave him in your hands, gentlemen, and into the building.

Their Henors, three hard-looking customers, had already taken their scats, and else. In a few moments the house was the crowd near the door, and some one, in certain the negro by his side was the slave a commanding voice, ordered a passage to and property of the master then and there be made, so that the prisoner might be claiming? They were certain—they had brought into Court. He said he of Illinois, and the town of Peoria once more had a serious objection to Daniel Dankle, as he had some time before stolen a sheep from him; that he had given him a good drubbing for so doing, and made him bring back the skin; and he was afraid he had not yet forgiven him. The Court ruled the objection good, and the juror was forthwith ejected, swearing most vehemently that if he old stand, though not the same unseemly could not be a juror, he would be a witness log building, but a spacious brick hotel, against the prisoner. FEMALE NAMES.

Mary, the sweetest of female names, may not inappropriately stand at the head of our list. It is from the Hebrew, and signifies walted. Its French form is Marie. It is, we hardly need say, a famous name in both sacred and profune history. The name has, literally, been exalted. It has been linked with titles and power-with crowns and corouets, and adorned by goodness and beauty. Mary has ever been a favorite name with the poets. Byron, as he assured us. felt an absolute passion for it. It is inwoven with some of his sweetest verses. The peasant poet. Burns, seems to have been as much attached to it as the author of Childe Harold. It is still the theme of bands and bardlings unnumbered. We might fill a column or two here with songs, somets, and hallads, in the melody of whose verse the most musical syllables are those which form | reared. Good Actions.

It is the custom among the Arabs for each pilgrim in passing by a memorable spot to cast a stone thereon. In this way a jule is when urged to contribute their mite in the general good, that their individual efforts would be of no avail. No person is so obscare in our opinion, who has it not in his power, by good actions and upright conduct, to aid his fellow-beings and raise the standards of morality, truth and justice. No good action is ever lost.

A pebble seems but a small and insignificant part of the world's surface, yet cast it into the water and an infinite succession of circles surround it, widening far beyond the reach of vision. So with a good action, it is a trifling thing at the time; it may have impressed but one human heart. Yet the lesson will never be lost. Wider and wider grow the circles till they lose themselves in the sea of eternity. Do not neglect the day of small things. Trifles make up the sum of human existence.

There is some grandeur and magnanimity in doing a great action or making a great sacrifice, but true charity and true greatness are content to labor unseen, saving by the one unsleeping eye that seeth and rewardeth all things. Do not fancy yourself useless .-Nothing in the wide world is so. But one unless our influence is for good it must be for evil. Though our contribution to the general good be but the widow's mite, let it be given cheerfully and unrepiningly, and it may yield an abundant barvest. There is an able monument, or rather mound of earth, which now stands on the borders of the Vistula, raised to the memory of the illustrious [Koskiuseo, by his countrymen, and during its erection, no one passed without carrying their portion of earth towards its completion. Men, women and children, each and all, labored together for this one grand object; the rich and the poor; for the lave of the patriot was strong in the hearts of all, and each hastened to do honor to his illustrious countryman. Let none despair or be idle, for they know not what destiny is before them. والمستعملين المستعمليات المستسب

The Husband.

The relation of husband and wife was established six thousand years ago, and has survived not only the flood, but every other change. It was then declared by the Ruler of the universe that man should leave father and mother and cleave unto his wife and they homeliness of face and goodness of heart should be one flesh. The relation was not formed for mere selfish or animal ends, it was not established for mere sensual gratihely and noble purposes.

The yew made, is to be observed at all times and amid all changes, and he is bound life lasts. I do not believe that a man is to be excluded from all female society because he is married, nor that it would be proper for him to cease the cultivation and enjoyment of all that is pleasant and delightful in triendship; far from it, for that would deprive us of our friends, would rob us of our main pleasures, would take from us one of the chief sources of comfort, and leave the world without a gleam of sunshine or a single ray of consolation; indeed, life thus narrowed would be almost worthless.

The husband eucht at all times to be tender, affectionate and loving, for naught else can compensate his wife for the sacrifices she has made, nor cheer her amid her many cares and arduous duties; harsh wordsunkind looks-fault finding, anger, and suspicions, should be carefully and watchfully ગુજાનોનીલી.

As the head of the family, the husband's example will be followed, and his words remembered; the destiny of others is placed in his hands, and be exerts an influence for good or for exil. President Roberts, of Liberia, says that the fears which he formerly entertained reperiment at self-government, have altogether subsided. A lack of industry and energy was once apparent, but agriculture is now every where throughout the Commonwealth receiving more attention. The public are also giving more attention to educational interests, and the aboriginal inhabitants are awakening to a sense of their importance. The Governor writes: "Our prospects were never more flattering, and we may reasonably hope that Liberia will attain to a powerful Republican Government, that will in all that constitutes true glory, rival, the United States of America-and that both natious, acting together in a generous rivalry of good works, may be the means of civilizing and christianizing the world, especially benighted Africa.'

The "Last Fast' Bigamist.-A New York letter to Philadelphia, gives the following account of a bigamist, mentioned in our own correspondence a few days since :

An extraordinary occurrence of premeditated villainy transpired in Brooklyn a day or two since. It appears that a man named James Welsh had been paying his addresses to a young woman for a year or more, and they were engaged to be married. He was constantly urging her to name a time for the consummation of their nuptials, and finally, Saturday evening, November 30th, was fixed upon. On that day and evening the bride was slightly indisposed, so that a brief delay was necessary. Welsh left her at 6 o'clock, P. M., as was supposed for a short time only, but did not return to the house till noon of the next day, Sunday .--In the meantime he had gone to the residence of another girl and married and remained. He then returned to the house. where he had left his sick bride, keeping his marriage a profound secret from her and her friends, and married her also; thus providing himself with two wives in a little over twelve hours. He remained with the girl he last married two days, and then left her to broud over the deception that had been seoundrel has another wife in Boston, to whom he was but recently married. From the New York Tribune. The Question of Industrial Independence in 1850

That our country is now in a state of prefound peace, bountiful harvests, rapidly inreasing population and production, running steadily and heavily in debt, is a fact which ought never to be forgotten until a fact it shall cease to be. True, we are making Railroads somewhat rapidly, but Mugland, with a smaller effective population than ours, and much heavier internal burdens on her industry, made hers still more rapidly, yet does not owe other nations a dollar for them. On the contrary, nearly every other nation on earth that can safely be trusted, (and some which connet;) are to day largely hel debtors, and some of them becoming still more deeply so-ours, for example. with every internal element of production. every reason for paying our present heavy lebts, instead of runging up new scores, we ard running behindhand at the rate of some Forty or Fifty Millions per annum! We want from for Railroads; and we have the oar and the filed in abundance, and of overy lesirable quality; we have an abundance of skill and energy, now idle, but eager to be employed in Iron making; and yet the reads now reaking across our own ore and coal beds are ironed from Great Britain, because her long experience in and virtual monopoly of Iron making, the profits on our trade and on her monopoly of the world's most lucrative fabrication and commerce, enable her to sell a very inferior quality o fron at a low price, and kindly accommodate us with ten or twenty years' credit on a good share of the purchase goes on very smoothly-for all but our laborers who are defrauded of the work and wages belonging to them by this cheap buyng in England-but what is to be the end it? Forty millions a year for evertwenty-five years (ushort life-time) amounts to One Thousand Million Dollars, to say nothing of the interest meantime accruing. The interest on that Thousand Millions must

At this moment, with our granaries filled to overflowing, and our hills covered with sheep and cattle, one half the works intended for Iron-making are standing idle and going to wreck, because our people are induced, through the sorceries of a perverted Commerce, to prefer European Metals and Fabrica to these produced at home, under the fatal delusion that the former are cheaper. But no man ever did or can buy an arhave made, and which they will stand idle in default of making. It is our carnest conviction that this Country is to-day One housand Millions poorer, and very far behind in art, skill, industry and comfort, than what it would have been by this time had the Tariff of 1828 stood unmodified until now. Had we but enjoyed twenty-live years of adequate, thoroughly efficient Protection to Home Industry, we believe that on most articles we could afford to abolish Duties altogether, and enter into the freest competition with every nation in the world. That it would be desirable to do so, we do not affirm; we regard it only in the light of pracheability. But we manage to half protect and then expose our immature enterprise to the competition of full grown, affluent, subtle and determined rivals, and in the uncqual struggle thus invited, our manufactumarkets for labor and for many descriptions common honests of products; thence follow distress, stagnation and bankruptcy, until the people are transiently aroused and impelled to seek a change of policy. A partial, halting, hesitating change is awarded - the People sink to sleep again; and a few years restore the veign of the old delusions. How long shall it continue thus?

THE CLERGY AND THE UNION. SOUND SENTIMENTS.

We had occasion a few days since to rebuke a demonstration adverse to the supremicy of the Constitution and the Laws, as recently made by a few misguided clergymen at Brooklyn. It affords us pleasure to notice sentiments of a very opposite, and of a highly commendable character, as recently promulgated by several of the most distinzuished clergymen of New York city. On Thanksgiving day, Dr. Spring, one of the Presbyterians and Dr. Hawkes, one of the most distinguished clergymen of the Episcopal Church, delivered sermons, in which they took occasion to advect to one or two of the promincut questions of the day, in language at bace cloquent. inequivocal, and calculated to exercise a nost salutary influence. Dr. Spring said "How any man can talk of a higher law with an oath to support the Constitution on is lips, is more than the othics of the Kihle will allow for the friends of Slavery, as rell as its encinies, are bound to support it. I do not stand here (said Dr. Spring) as the advocate of slavery, nor as the advocate for the immediate emancipation of our Southern slares, which would be more sinful than sl very itself. Tell the Christian men of the South what to do with the Slaves, before you deciate so unqualifiedly, that Slavery is sin. You say, emancipate them! That can't be done-the laws forbid it. If they did emancipate them, they could not send them to the Free States, for, with all their When a colony of them were sent to abolition Ohio they would not give them a resting place for the soles of their feet; and should be galling to the South? The slave is placed in such a condiion that he must be either slave or muster. The burden of slavery is placed on the South and instead of being goaded by the abolitionists, they are entitled to our sympathy.' Dr. Hawkes concluded his discourse with this language—

"I would impress on you, my countrymen, hot merely the impolitic folly, but the palpable wickedness in the sight of God, of allthis clamor, and indeed of any measure tending to the severance of our confederacy -We have, us one of the nations of the world, God's work to do, to do it, we require the moral, physical and financial force that union alone can give .- To be loval to the confederacy, therefore, is picty; for it is fidelity towards God. And, in conclusion, I would, as an American citizen, with a heart that beats for my country as a whole, and for my whole country without distinction spectfully say to you, cherish in your heart of hearts, our glorious Union; and let your prayer to God be daily heard, that from ocean to ocean, and from the snows of our North to the ever blooming roses of our South. one simultaneous cry may ever rise from the lad hearts of happy t one faith, one tongue, one freedom, one coun-

Report of the Secretary of the Treasury

The Report of Mr. Scoretary Conwin from the Treasury Department, somewhat delayed in its transmission to the House of Representatives, presents a full and clear view of the National Finances, and shounds with suggestions eminently wise and appro-

On the first of July of the present year, 1850, there was a balance in the Treasury of $6,604,544 49. The aggregate receipts for the year ending at that time amounted to $47,421,748 90 to which was, to be added a balance from the previous year of 82,184,964, 28. The expenditures for the year amounted to $43,002,168 69 For the fiscal year ending with the close of June 1851, the receipts into the Tressury from all sources are, estimated at $47, 08,050 00; which, with the balance on hand; will make the resources of the year, as estimated, $54,312,594,49. The expenditures for the same year are estimated at ance in the Treasury on the first of July, July last, of over six millions and a half, until this evening for further examination.

In the portion of Mr. Corwin's Report relating to this important subject we have the essential points requisite for a proper modification of the tariff, in view of a necessary increase of revenue, brought forward distinctly and foreibly. The injustice of the ad valorem system of duties in taxing imports higher in proportion, as the prices are higher and the consumer to bear the additional burden thus enhanced, is strongly set forth, in connection with the rils which the same system inflicts upon our domestic manufacturing interests by lowering the rates of duties in proportion as prices full abroad and importations become

A Suggestive Message from the Gover-

RICHMOND, Dec. 18. Gov. John B. Floyd sent a message to the legislature yesterday, characterizing the recent action of the Vermont Legislature as an injury and an insult to the whole South ; and remarks that it demands an instant settlement of the issue which has so long distracted the whole country. For the restoration of complete and effectual harmony, the Governor recommends the legislature to invite all the States in the Union to unite in sending delegates to represent the whole people in a Convention to assemble at Baltimore, or some other convenient central point, tial chair by a direct vote of the people. As Pedlers licenses. ther recommends that Virginia, speaking through her Legislature, appeal, earnestly and sincerely, to her sister States of the South, to postpone any extreme action in relation to the present difficulties, until the result of the deliberations of such a Conven- him in a responsible position, and it may cludes by saying that the motto must be, as it has been-"Union if we can-Independence if we must." The Charleston Mercury records an extraordinary shooting match which took place at Mount Pleasant, South Carolina .-A Mr. King backed himself to break 95 wine bottles (viz: the hard Sherry and Madeira bottle) out of 100 thrown up, and to be fairly broken in the air. Considerable speculation took place, and many heavy bets were pending on the affair; the odds were against his doing it, and 50 to 10 against his hitting all, and 75 to 10 against breaking 98, which was taken by himself. After smashing one as a trial, the match commenced; the first five double shots were loaded and fired by Mr. King in ten minutes, and ten bottles scattered into hundreds of pieces. He broke all up to the 60th bottle, which was hit, but not broken; from the 60th to the 100th all were broken. Mr. King loaded himself, washed out his gun three times, and hit, including the byshot. 101 bottles, broke 100 in 101 shots. Time -2 hours and 8 minutes.

State of Europe.

Apprehensions of a General War. The London correspondent of the North American, in his letter of the 29th of November, received by the last steamer, the America, thus speaks of the state of things in Europe, and the apprehensions that are felt of a general war. Statesmen, politicians, and commercial men are anxiously watching, says this correspondent, the course of events in Europe. The political game is just as perplexing now as it was last week There has been scarcely one move towards its solution. Austria continues her armaments on the same grand scale, and advances, threatening her neighbor. Prussia is filling her arsenals with military stores, placing her fortresses in a state of defence, and removing her crown jewels and other valuables to a safe place. Denmark and the Duchies continue their little war, skirmishing occaionally for relaxation and change. Thesecession of Baden from the Prussian League has made a deep impression throughout Prussia: but the latter cannot complain, as she suddenly recalled her troops and withdrew her protection from Baden; and Baden cannot assist Prussia, as she will require all her troops for her own protection against fees from without and revolutionists not to allow the Austre-Bavarian army to pass through her territory. The Russian Ambassador informs l'russia that his gov-Prussia supports the Duke of Brunswick in his apposition to the march of the Austrians. France is moving her army of forty thousand | Wills Extract is composed of the best and men towards the Rhine. England-almost in as humble a position as Prussia in this great German question-merely sends her moves. Bussia and Austria have agreed to act together (France of course must follow); and a war of Prussia against Austria would be a war with Russia also, South Caroling and Vermont .- A Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun says: I am glad to learn, from various and authentic sources, that the State of South Carolina will take an opportunity to retire Cold Weather !- In Montreal, (Canada,) gracefully and with dignity from her isolaand the influences which are likely to control her, remain quiet, provided no further aggression upon the rights and interests of the slave-holding States shall be committed. In fine, as a leading newspaper in South Carolina states, the agitation will, in a great measure, subside in the South, if it shall also subside in the North St & Legislatures, in Congress, and athing Northern Register's Office. The gas from this fire had for several nights affected Mrs. Fraley, who, with her husband, were ignorant of the cause. 18.673 75 They were natives of England. A child in the same room escaped any serious effects.

Gambling in Cincinnati.-The police of 1,317,821 55 Cincinnati last week instituted an investiga-107,427 49 tion, by which they ascertained that between 171,062 26 forty and fifty different houses and rooms 2,525 05 for gambling were in full operation, and counted between 400 and 500 persons, mostly young men of the industrious laboring classes, surrounding the tables.

Business at York .- A gentleman counted passing Main street bridge, in York, on Friday week, 146 wagons; of these there were never failing well of water, and also a good Brick 71 loaded with grain, 34 with wood, 9 with flour, 3 with whiskey, and a number came for coal, iron and lumber.

Lecture .- On Friday evening last a lecture on the "Spirit and Tendency of the Age," was delivered by James McSherry, of Mary-10,270 00 land, at the Catholic Institute, in Broadway, New York, before a numerous and intelligent audience. The lecturer continued for nearly two hours to address the audience, and at the conclusion he was loudly cheered.

An Ercellent Sentiment.—The following sentence occurs in a Thanksgiving sermon, 3,687 20 delivered in Philadelphia by the Rev. M. 177 00 Brainard:

"He who counsels a resistance by force to an existing law, without intending a revolution to give a better government, is an assassin.'

Nothing is more true than this remark.

A Good Tariff Argument .- The Southern Democrats, so called, have in times past insisted that any tax laid upon foreign importations was a tax upon the consumer .-the ordinary expenses of the government, At the present time Governor Floyd, and sed to Public Sale, much of the surplus going into the sinking other distinguished Democrats of the South, fund devised and perfected by the recom- purpose to levy a tax of ten per cent, upon productions of the Northern States for their | at one o clock | Productions of the Northern States for their | Estate, to wit: breach of faith in regard to the Fugitive certain extinguishment of the State debt Slave Law. But if their old argument was a good one, and a tax upon foreign productions does really fall upon the consumer and not upon the producer, the proposed retaliatory law will be a verification of the homely proverb of biting off the nose to spite the face."

From the New York Tribune. The Question of Industrial Independence in 1850.

That our country is now in a state of profound peace, bountiful harvests, rapidly increasing population and production, running steadily and heavily in debt, is a fact which ought never to be forgotten until a fact it shall cease to be. True, we are making Railroads somewhat rapidly, but England, with a smaller effective population than ours, and much heavier internal burdens on her industry, made hers still more rapidly, yet does not owe other nations a dollar for them. On the contrary, nearly every other nation on earth that can safely be trusted, (and some which cannot,) are to-day largely her debtors, and some of them becoming still more deeply so-ours, for example. Yes, with every internal element of production, every reason for paying our present heavy debts, instead of running up new scores, we are running behindhand at the rate of some Forty or Fifty Millions per annum! We want Iron for Railroads; and we have the oar and the fuel in abundance, and of every desirable quality; we have an abundance of skill and energy, now idle, but eager to be employed in Iron making; and yet the roads now making across our own ore and coal beds are ironed from Great Britain, because her long experience in and virtual monopoly of Iron making, the profits on our trade and on her monopoly of the world's most lucrative fabrication and commerce, enable her to sell a very inferior quality of Iron at a low price, and kindly accommodate us with ten or twenty years' credit on a good share of the purchase money. All this goes on very smoothly—for all but our laberers who are defrauded of the work and wages belonging to them by this cheap buying in England-but what is to be the end of it? Forty millions a year for every twenty-five years (a short life-time) amounts to One Thousand Million Dollars, to say nothing of the interest meantime accruing. The interest on that Thousand Millions must be some Sixty Millions a year. If we cannot now pay our way by Forty Millions, what shall we do when the annual interest of our Foreign Debt shall be Sixty Millions At this moment, with our granaries filled to overflowing, and our hills covered with sheep and cattle, one half the works intended for Iron-making are standing idle and going to wreck, because our people are induced, through the sorceries of a perverted Commerce, to prefer European Metals and Fabries to those produced at home, under the fatal delusion that the former arc cheaper. But no man ever did or can buy an article cheap which his own boys ought to have made, and which they will stand idle in default of making. It is our earnest conviction that this Country is to-day One Thousand Millions poorer, and very far behind in art, skill, industry and comfort, than what it would have been by this time had the Tariff of 1828 stood unmodified until now. Had we but enjoyed twenty-five years of adequate, thoroughly efficient Protection to Home Industry, we believe that on most articles we could afford to abolish Duties altogether, and enter into the freest competition with every nation in the world. That it would be desirable to do so, we do not affirm; we regard it only in the light of practicability. But we manage to half protect and then expose our immature enterprise to the competition of full grown, affluent, subtle and determined rivals, and in the uncqual struggle thus invited, our manufacturers go to the wall. Then come glutted abor and for many descriptions of products; thence follow distress, stagnation and bankruptcy, until the people are transiently aroused and impelled to seek a change of policy. A partial, halting, hesitating change is awarded; the People sink to sleep again; and a few years restore the reign of the old delusions. How long shall it continue thus? We estimate that the actual Foreign cost of the Metals and Fabrics imported from Europe during the year now closing was certainly not less than Eighty Millions of Dollars, of which at least Seventy Millions might have been produced in our own Country by an expenditure of Labor no larger than was required for their production in Europe. If this be the fact, then we have utterly lost-as much as if we had thrown so much value into the ocean-the heavy cost of importing these Metals and Fabrics, sold abroad to pay for them. The average cost of collecting and transporting our Free Labor Agricultural Produce to Europe is not less than half its net product-and that would nearly be saved by winning the Artisans and Operatives who fabricate our imported Cloths and Metals from the establishments in which they work and round which they about half live in Europe, and naturalizing them and their arts on our own soil. Then an infinity of articles of spontaneous growth or easy production would find markets which now are not produced or left to rot where they grew for want of purchasers. Then farms and plantations now exhausted by successive harvests of Wheat or Cotton, would be renovated and fertilized by the more various and thorough culture which incite. Then Industry, with a hundred avincitements to and rewards for fidelity and excellence, such as are now scarcely known. Then would our nation become truly inde- years of age. pendent, paying off debts, public and private, and exchanging freely and bountifully its surplus products for those which other climes and soils produce, but ours do not, and thus mainiaining a prosperous Trade without warring upon and depressing Home Industry.

Land Warrants-Curious Cost -1 Washington letter in the New York Herald

"A curious case of the location of a land warrant is reported here. An old soldier, in the full acceptation of the word, living at Harper's Ferry, being entitled to 160 acres of land for his services in the army. according to the bounty land law of the last session, for the sake of convenience, located his "patent right" on a tract of government land uneccupied, or in some way open to location, at Harper's Ferry. He had consulted one of the ablest lawyers on the subject, whose opinion is that the old soldier children. He was the lifteenth. He says will get the land, which is said to be, from in his autobiography, that his father died at its location, worth at least $150,000. It is the age of $50, and his mother at the age of the law sais so.

THE CLERGY AND THE UNION.

SOUND SENTIMENTS.

We had occasion a few days since to rebuke a demonstration adverse to the supremacy of the Constitution and the Laws, as recently made by a few misguided clergymen at Brooklyn. It affords us pleasure to notice sentiments of a very opposite, and of a highly commendable character, as recently promulgated by several of the most distinguished clergymen of New York city. On Thanksgiving day, Dr. Spring, one of the Patriarchs of the Presbyterians, and Dr. Hawkes, one of the most distinguished elergymen of the Episcopal Church, delivered sermons, in which they took occasion to advert to one or two of the prominent questions of theday, in language at once eloquent, unequivocal, and calculated to exercise a most salutary influence. Dr. Spring said :

"How any man can talk of a higher law with an oath to support the Constitution on his lips, is more than the ethics of the Bible will allow-for the friends of Slavery, as well as its enemies, are bound to support it. I do not stand here (said Dr. Spring) as the advocate of slavery, nor as the advocate for the immediate emancipation of our Southern slaves, which would be more sinful than slavery itself. Tell the Christian men of the South what to do with the Slaves, before you declare so unqualifiedly, that Slavery is sin. You say, emancipate them! That can't be done-the laws forbid it. If they did emancipate them, they could not send them to the Free States, for, with all their abolitionism, they will not receive them.

When a colony of them were sent to abolition Ohio, they would not give them a resting place for the soles of their feet; and hose people exclaim, why not emancipate the slaves? Is it any wonder that this should be galling to the South? We should say to them, keep your slaves and use them well, and when prepared for it, and you can do better for them, and when the time has come to loose their bonds, let them go free. The best we can say of slavery is, that it is a great political evil; but a choice of evils is all that is sometimes left for human wisdom. The slave is placed in such a condition that he must be either slave or master. The burden of slavery is placed on the South; and instead of being goaded by the aboli-tionists, they are entitled to our sympathy." Dr. Hawkes concluded his discourse with this language-"I would impress on you, my countrymen, not merely the impolitic folly, but the palpable wickedness in the sight of God, of all this clamor, and indeed of any measure tending to the severance of our confederacy. We have, as one of the nations of the world, God's work to do, -to do it, we require the moral, physical and financial force that union alone can give .- To be loyal to the confederacy, therefore, is piety; for it is fidelity towards God. And, in conclusion, I would, as an American citizen, with a heart that beats for my country as a whole, and for my whole country without distinction, respectfully say to you, cherish in your heart of hearts, our glorious Union, and let your prayer to God bedaily heard, that from ocean to ocean, and from the snows of our North to the ever blooming roses of our South one simultaneous cry may ever rise from the glad hearts of happy thousands, "one God, one faith, one tongue, one freedom, one coun-

For There is something worse than foolish in the behavior of the Vermont Nullifiers. There are no fugitives from slavery in Vermont, nor is it pretended that the actual state of things there demanded any legislation whatever on the subject of such persons. This nullifying act, therefore has the appearance of an empty bravado, attered by a man who knows he is out of danger. and may vaunt of his courage as much as he pleases, without any fear of having it put to the test. It may be said that the act. being inoperative, can do no harm. Surely it will do much harm. With what face can a citizen of Vermont call upon a Georgian or Carolinian to adhere to the Constitution after an act like this? It is a proceeding entirely without excuse; a deed of presump tuous rashuess, performed at a time when and of exporting our far more bulky Produce the public safety demands the utmost discretion and foresight. The States of the Union are in a condition to be easily prove ked into hostility toward each other; nothing can preserve peace but mutual forbear ance and self-restraint. How wretched the folly, then, how wanton the malice, which can thus throw out a provocation, which bears on the face of it the stamp of a deliberate intention to do mischief to fan the embers of discord which now require but a breath to raise them to a destroying flame. -Boston Courier.

Report of the Secretary of the Treasury.

The Report of Mr. Secretary Conwin. from the Treasury Department, somewhat delayed in its transmission to the House of Representatives, presents a full and clear view of the National Finances, and abounds with suggestions eminently wise and appro-

On the first of July of the present year, 1850, there was a balance in the Treasury of $6,604,544 49. The aggregate receipts for the year ending at that time amounted to $17,421,748 90-to which was to be added a balance from the previous year of $2,184,964 28. The expenditures for the year amounted to $43,002,168 C9.

For the fiscal year ending with the close of June, 1851, the receipts into the Treasury from all sources are estimated at $47, 708.050 00; which, with the balance on hand, will make the resources of the year, as estimated, $54,312,594-49. The expenditures for the same year are estimated at $53,853,597 50-leaving a probable balance in the Treasury, on the first of July, 1851, of $458,996 99, or less than half a million. It will be seen that but for the July last, of over six millions and a half, there would be a deficiency of some six millions at the close of the present fiscal year.

From the beginning of the war with Mexien the annual expenditures of the Government were largely increased; and in consequence of that war and the acquisitions of new and extensive territories which were the result of it, and in consequence moreover of the pecuniary obligations of the Goverument created by the expenses of the war, it is shown by the Secretary that a continuance of large expenditures will be required for an indefinite period. The country is prepared to expect this necessity, and it will devolve upon Congress to provide for it. The large appropriations of public lands made to those who served in Mexico, and to those also who had served in other wars, in addition to grants made to States, for purposes of internal improvement, cannot but have the effect to deprive the General Government of a large part of its accustomed receipts from the Land offices; so that the Treasury must be upon the receipts from customs. In the portion of Mr. Corwin's Report relating to this important subject we have the essential points requisite for a proper modification of the tariff, in view of a necessary increase of revenue, brought forward distinctly and forcibly. The injustice of the ad valorem system of duties in taxing imports higher in proportion, as the prices are higher and the consumer less able to bear the additional burden thus enhanced, is strongly set forth in connection with the evils which the same system inflicts upon our domestic manufacturing interests by lowering the rates of duties in proportion as prices fall abroad and importations become profuse, and when protection to home interests is most needed.

The attention of Congress cannot be turnments brought upon its industrial interests by the same system. A proper modification of the tariff by a judicious resort to specific duties, would have an immediate beneficial effect both upon the revenue of the Govern-Corwin's Report, and especially to its statistical facts. - Baltimore American.

We learn from the Pension Office that, J. J. Clyde & Co., will commence on or in answer to various inquiries relative to the tion of a paper at Harrisburg, to be called bounty land act of September 28, 1850, decisions have been made as follows: 1. That where the service has been rendered by a substitute, he is the person entitled to the benefit and not his employer .-[This is in accordance with the first statement made, but contrary to a brief letter 10 o'clock next morning at the Front street confided in, as the organ of the ever true. published lately.] 2. That the widow of a soldier who has rendered the service required by the law is entitled to bounty land, provided she was a widow at the passage of the law, although she may trave been married several times; or although her marriage to the officer or soldier may have taken place after he left the service; bat if not a widow when the law passed, the benefit of the act the head of our National and State Admin- inures to the minor children of the deceased As soon as the Theatre was cleared, they istrations, and all the distinguished men who soldier. 3d. That no person who has received or is entitled to bounty land under a prior law is entitled to the benefit of the net of the 28th of September, 1850. 4. That no soldier is entitled to more than one warrant under this act, although be may have served several terms; but, where a soldier has served several terms, he will receive a warrant for the greatest quantity of land to which the several terms consolidated will entitle him. 5. In all eases where any portion of the marine corps in the several wars referred to in the act of the 28th September, 1850, were embodied with the army in the field, and performed service as a portion of the line of the army, the marines who so served, if they served the time required by law, and were honorably diselarged, are entitled to land. No scaman, nor any other person belonging to the navy proper, is enitled to land. And no teamster or artificer is entitled to land. Persons who were engaged in the removal of the Cherokees from Georgia, in 1839, or in removing Indians at any time, are not entitled to land. Reuben Dunbar, after a long trial at Albany, has been convicted of the marder of two boys, named Lester, in the town of Waterloo, on the 28th of September last .-Stephen V. Lester, one of the boys, was eight years old : David, was two years older. They were missing on the morning of Saturday the 28th, and although an active search Stephen was then found in some bushes under a ledge of rocks-lying on his back and covered with stones and leaves; his head and breast were crushed in, and six of his ribs were broken. On the next day the other boy was found hanging in a tree, on the brow of the ridge, back of the ledge of rocks. Dunbar was an inmate of the family of David Lester, uncle of the two boys, with whom they lived, and had worked Lester's farm. On the day when the boys disappeared Dumbar was the only male person concealed under a log near where the eldest child was found, and the rope by which the other hung was also proved to belong to Mr. tective of American interests, and furnish- Lester.
